Advice to the Lovelorn

Beatrice Fairfax

NATURALLY you are anxious to make a good impression on the family of the man to whom you are engaged. Be perfectly natural, show respect to his parents and interest in all that his mother tells you. Offer to help with the housework. Show interest in his own life, be as bright and interested as you can, and just say to yourself, "There are the people of the man I love and I want them to love me." If you have not read much history, try to get a few books on the subject. Read Dickens, George Eliot, Walter Scott, etc.? You will find Dickens's novels cheerful and entertaining. If you want history there will tell you at any public library how to get it. Be natural and unaffected in conversation. Be natural and unaffected in conversation. trance of family ties. Perhaps she is tired of the time you spend with your brother. It does not argue well for you future happiness that she should forbid all contact with you, with the exception of you mother, to enter your house. If you let her well enough to give up your entire family for her sake go ahead and marry her but I would advise you to think it well over.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
Will you kindly advise me in regard to my Am. citizen. Am anxious gained to her. In the early part of the winter, Brother came to Boston in search of employment. I took him into my room and up to a week ago he was in the city. He was not able to save no money toward ex- ation, and he was in a very con- siderable time with my brother, but called to see my dance every Wed- nesday and Sunday. He was a quirel over money matters, at the end of which I promised to do bet- ter. She took him to the dance and banded it to me, saying that if I would not let her go, she would let her I might do so. She says that if I will treat her properly in the future, take her to the dance, and she will have my money, she will consider me a friend. I will not do this, with the express under- standing that she will not be a friend of my relatives, with the exception of her small family. I will not let her love the girl, Miss Fairfax, but I want of a family the members of which will be able to take care of her. I accept the condition— which is to me a great deal— and elect to end my love affair with a sweetheart who ing of the suspender suits. The extreme practicality of this fashion cannot be estimated from the point of view of science, comfort and economy. Now we have a modification of the original "strap" style which has much to be commended to it. It is made with the body part resting in the shoulder. This shoulder strap is then a new idea, but a most desirable one for by such means the little daughter, no matter how small, may get into her dress without assistance, have one button to fasten, and let the dress be adjusted. The suspender suits may be of different material, and as these suits are made in a variety of colors, they may be more or please customer in wear. As shown, they may be made in either of two ways. The shirt is killed with horizontal in front.

A good tonic to promote growth, which can be used also on the eyelashes, is made up from the following:
Lavender vinegar, 2½ ounces, glycerin, Spanish Soup

Put four Spanish onions and fry in a skillet until they are till done and cut in halves. Add them three plates of chicken, salt, with salt and pepper to taste, and a little onion juice chopped parsley.

Stewed Chicken

Put two chickens into pieces for serving. Add a half cup of water, a half cup of water, a half teaspoonful of pepper and a half teaspoonful of salt. Cover closely and simmer for one hour. Add a little onion juice and a little butter. Add a little onion juice and a little butter. Add a little onion juice and a little butter.

Bread Omelet

Put six tablespoons of cream to two round pieces of butter. Add a half cup of water, a half teaspoonful of pepper and a half teaspoonful of salt. Cover closely and simmer for one hour. Add a little onion juice and a little butter. Add a little onion juice and a little butter.

Savory Biscuits

One quart of flour, one pound of sugar, eight eggs, beaten separately, and one cup of butter, melted, and one cup of milk.
